morphological structures of the world's languages.

Clearly organized and broad-ranging, it covers topics such as parts-of-speech, passives, complementation, relative clauses, adverbial clauses, inflectional morphology, tense, aspect, mood, and diexis. The contributors look at the major ways that these notions are realized, and provide informative sketches of them at work in a range of languages.

Complex Constructions

Based on this parameter, three types of language are recognized: isolating, agglutinating, and fusional. An isolating language typically has a one-to-one correspondence between a morpheme and a word; that is, in such a language every morpheme is an independent word. An example of an almost perfectly isolating language is Vietnamese, as illustrated in (1) (Thompson (1987:207)).
